

PAY ATTENTION!

Take part in attention research...

---

Our research studies aim to better understand how aging and brain disease affect our ability to pay attention, remember, and process information. These studies will help us create new tools to maintain healthy minds and help others recover from brain disease or injury.

We Need YOUR help!

We are looking for adults to participate in any one or more of our various studies. Most studies will take only 1–2 hours, and you will be compensated for your time.

If you are interested and would like to get involved please contact us!
